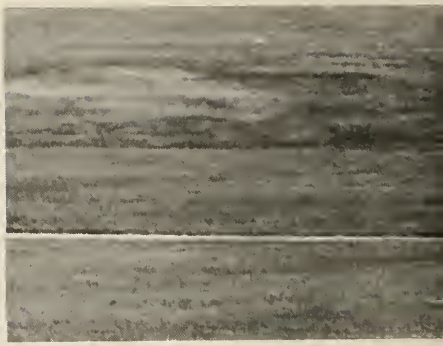
. . . From men and women
of all groups . . .



. . . became more than
my individual
story.

Because it is not lasting
let us not fall into the cynic's trap
and call it an illusion.

Women need
solitude
in order to find
the true essence
of themselves.

A LAMBDA

All living relationships are in process
of change, of expansion
and must perpetually be building themselves
new forms.

MARCHANTIA

VENABLE
HIGH
ONE WAY

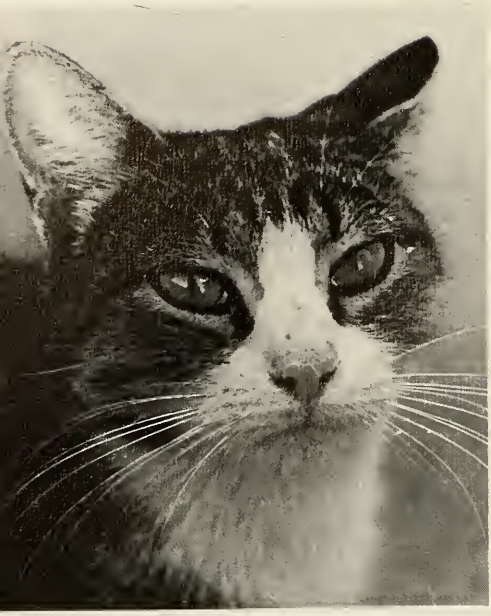
We must use
any signposts that exist
to help us try to find
a new path through the maze
of tradition, convention
and dogma.

. . . there is no
one-and-only;
there are just
one-and-only moments.

The here, the now, and the individual have always been the special concern of women.



Purposeful giving is not as apt to deplete one's resources; it renews itself even in the act of depletion.

Our efforts are part of the struggle to mature
the conception of relationships
between men and women
and every step,
even a tentative one,
counts.

. . . I want first of all to be at peace with myself.

. . . you
have set my mind
on a journey . . .

. . . up
an inwardly winding spiral staircase of thought.

GOVERN W.

President
Henry I. Willett, Jr.

With the ever-changing demands of a modern college, the means of meeting such demands are constantly under revision. During the past year direct administration-student confrontation was established at scheduled press conferences during which President Willett and other members of the administration made policy statements and answered questions posed by the students. In this year which ended one decade of Longwood's history and also looked forward to another, the physical as well as personality changes of the college were obvious. A ten-story dormitory was occupied and a second high-rise neared completion; construction on a laboratory school was begun; the addition of three new academic buildings to house the music, art, and home economics departments were also a part of the changing face of the college.

Since 1960 the student enrollment has almost doubled to a projected '70-71 figure of two thousand students. In spite of such a growth rate the administration has sought to maintain a student/faculty ratio of fifteen to one and increasingly emphasized the importance of an individualized education for each student.

The sixties have seen a quantitative growth in facilities, student enrollment, and faculty. With this has also come the constant demand for quality in all areas. Since the arrival of Dr. Henry I Willett, Jr. as president of the college the total percentage of faculty members with doctorate degrees has increased ten percent to the present level of thirty-five percent.

The session spanned a new decade and carried with it the marks of progress. Continued efforts by faculty and administration to meet the needs of this rapidly changing institution and the students were reflected by the ease with which the entire college incorporated and utilized not only new physical facilities but also new concepts and methods of education. Looking forward to the seventies, this session has foreshadowed a decade of increasing qualitative growth in both the undergraduate and graduate schools of this teacher-training institution.

CHI, an institution as old as the college itself, is one of the many traditions which is interwoven with the spirit of Longwood. Evidences of CHI include a symbolic skull and crossbones on the sidewalks, a banner at various college functions, and a group of girls clad in white as they chant late at night; yet, the essential purpose is to encourage and maintain the spirit of cooperation among students in every phase of college life, to foster the high ideals and traditions of our college, and to be an organization which seeks to recognize honorable attributes in others.

To Longwood students and graduates, Chi of 1970 is very proud to present the BLUE AND WHITE SONGBOOK so that this collection of class, color and college songs will contribute to and be a reminder of our essential purpose.

The purpose of the Athletic Association is to sponsor and conduct intramural, class, and color sports and to support the various varsity teams which represent Longwood in interscholastic competition.

The major activity of the Association this year was the development of a new system of intramural competition. Competition was held among teams representing each dorm and sorority, the tournament winners being awarded trophies for display. This new system encouraged more students to participate in the intramural program and heightened the enthusiasm and team spirit of players as well as spectators.

Senior class

Nine months bridging two decades constituted the last interim on Longwood's campus for the Class of 1970. The transition from the sixties to the seventies is represented appropriately by this graduating class. During the four years of their experience on campus, this class has witnessed four extensions in curfews, and liberalizations of the drinking rules and dress code. There have been numerous changes initiated by the students themselves, all moving toward a more actively aware student body.

Increasingly aware of the responsibilities of the school's motto, "Education to all – We teach to teach," the majority of the class experienced eight weeks of supervised student teaching in state public schools. In these eight weeks the full significance of those often seen words became a reality.

Joining with their sister Sophomore Class the Seniors planned the Red 'n White skit for the Oktoberfest competition which attracted alumni, parents, friends, and then absent student teachers. In taking the victory for the skit competition, the '70 Class made their record perfect, the Red 'n Whites having won every year since the class's arrival.

Capping, the first formal event for the Seniors, was held on November 13 as the class officially received status as a graduating class. Dr. Willett as the principle speaker addressed the seniors and their "little sisters" on the media of communication within the college community and the positive attitude displayed on this campus notably in the demonstration held last spring in support of the president and administration. Class sponsor, Dr. James Helms, gave the seniors formal recognition as they received their caps. The following day, Senior Convocation in Jarman Auditorium was held with Dr. Catherine Sims, Dean of Sweetbriar College, as the featured speaker.

As future alumni, the class was introduced to the Longwood Alumni Program through the Alumni Fund Drive sponsored before Christmas vacation. Throughout the remainder of the semester, national teacher examinations and teacher interviews occupied most minds.

Second semester began and anticipation heightened in the months preceding graduation as announcements were ordered and plans for Senior Sneak Day were made. The Senior Banquet and Assembly and Song competition filled out the semester as final exams approached. And with the end came the long awaited and often nebulous graduation. Climaxing their years at Longwood the ceremony held on June 6 sent the Class of 1970 from the protected halls of a campus to teach to all that which they had been taught.

More land is cleared yet some things remained; like Oktoberfest and usherettes Suzanne Turner and Betty King (left), and dinner in the senior dining hall.

Junior class

Nearing the end of their college careers, the Class of '71 found this year to be a time for the fringe benefits of Class prestige. They were a "big sister" class for a change, and the enthusiastic support of their freshmen sisters helped to build an esprit de corps that before had been buried beneath classes and tensions. Guiding their sister class through the throes of orientation, registration, and frustration, they took the time to work not only for themselves but also for their fledgling frosh. The effort brought tangible results with the win of the Geist Cup during Oktoberfest week-end.

The weeks rolled on, and in November a new source of pride came to the Juniors in the form of their class rings. Under the supervision of Mr. James Gussett, acting sponsor for the class, the class further made plans. When the sidewalk from Curry to Iler was poured, the Class of '71 was there with deeds for name-writing on the new walk for those who really wanted to leave their marks at Longwood. Christmas came, accompanied by the Green 'n White party.

Of course, the highlight of the year was the Junior Ring Dance, which featured Glen Yarborough in an afternoon concert and the "Blue-Eyed Soul" for the dance itself. A breakfast afterwards gave the occasion an added touch of elegance for the Juniors and their escorts, making the entire weekend truly "A Time for Us."

The final step in the development of the Junior year came at the Senior Assembly on May 13, when a triumphant Senior Class paid their final tribute to the Class of '71 in the formation of the arch to recognize them as the incumbant senior class.

In their return for their second year, the Sophomores were apparently detemined to undergo not only their accepted change of status but also a new role in the activities of Longwood and the Farmville community. They got off to what was certainly a swinging start with the "Swinging Medallions" concert, produced in conjunction with the Colleagues, those sophomores chosen to assist directly in Orientation Week. In October, the Class of '72 brought an innovation to campus with Parents' Day, which, happily, was a great success. Over 375 guests were presented a skit prepared by the sophs, a tea, and a luncheon. Oktoberfest brought more laurels for the class as the Red 'n Whites won the competition of the skits. Many more mixers graced the '69-'70 session, and the sophs made their contribution to November with a mixer before Christmas holidays with music by "The Statesmen". And during the week preceding the holiday vacation, a delegation of carolers from the Class of '72 added to the zest of the Yuletide for both Longwood and Farmville residents.

By second semester the Sophs were in full swing for their special activity, Sophomore Weekend. The agenda included the annual Mr. Longwood contest, a powder-puff football game with the Hampden-Sydney Picas, a slumber party for all sophs, and a dance for the young at heart and fast of feet. In addition to a number of money making projects, such as the Sophomore Auction, the class endeavors extended into work for the less fortunate; in this field, the Road Show was produced for an agreeable and appreciative audience.

Sandy Ellis, a sophomore and Vivian Vascott, a junior, discuss and upcoming play production before class.

Four of the Colleagues, a group of selected girls for Orientation, traditional with the ophomore Class descend to the Sunken Garden to cap their freshman group.

Freshman class

The Class of '73 had the distinction of being a record-breaker from the very beginning of its tenure at Longwood: its 750 members comprised the largest class in the college's history. Whether the size of the class was an asset or a hindrance during Orientation week was debatable, however, the large number of the new beanies circulating among the upperclassmen was somewhat reassuring to each unassured freshman. The frosh gained composure quickly though, and exhibited an enthusiasm with each activity that heightened as the year progressed. Giving whole-hearted support to their sister class, the Juniors, they aided in the capture of the Geist Cup of Oktoberfest. All of the depressions of freshman year seem to have been deftly avoided by the Class of '73 simply by maintaining a steady spirit that kept them on a high tide of victory, as exemplified by the Green 'n Whites winning color hockey. Second semester brought the most important project for the class in Freshman Production. This was the greatest achievement on the part of the freshmen because it was the only projected activity carried out solely by that class. To the pride of the Freshman and their sisters it was produced with the same ardor that had accompanied their previous ventures, and it provided "team" experience to help them in their coming years at Longwood.

Proudly capped in their distinctive beanies, freshmen reflect a multitude of thoughts.

The Red 'n White Float of Oktoberfest was manned by freshmen and juniors alike for the parade.

Out of the shelter of life,
a few people
are selected for us
by the accident of temporary confinement
in the same
circle.

. . . But thrown together
on this island of living we stretch
to understand
each other and are invigorated
by the stretching.

When we start at the center
of ourselves,
we discover something worthwhile
extending toward the periphery of the circle.
We find again some of the joy in
the now,
some of the peace in the here,
some of the love in me and thee
which go to make up
the kingdom of heaven on earth.

This is only a beginning.
